

Credit from Foreign Institutions

Students who have completed courses from an accredited university in a foreign country may be able to apply the course credit toward an associate